

THE BLACK SEA FLEET IN MUTINY

RUSSIAN FORCES IN THE CRIMEA DISAFFECTED

Four Thousand Troops in Sebastopol in Open Rebellion—An Admiral Shot.

Sebastopol, Nov. 27.—The long expected mutiny of the sailors who have been on the verge of revolt for months, has come, and Russia's strong hold on the Black Sea is in danger of falling completely into their hands. The situation is critical. All the shore equipment numbering 4,000 men are in open rebellion, having driven away or taken the officers prisoners.

A regiment of infantry has gone over to the mutineers and General Neftseff, commander of the fortress, is a captive. The Bielestok regiment, the only other regiment in the city, received the mutineers with cheers, but remains loyal. The artillerymen have joined the revolt. The Russian fleet is standing in the offing and is still obeying orders, but the crews are disaffected and there is doubt whether they can be restrained from joining the mutineers and greater doubt that they will fire on them. The seventh army corps has been hastily summoned from Simferopol. The mutiny was deliberately and perfectly planned by the revolutionaries who have been pushing the propaganda since the St. Petersburg strike was organized to save the Cossack mutineers.

ATHABASCA LANDING STAGE DRIVER KILLED

Athabasca Landing, Nov. 27.—Frank Newark, who was killed by one of his horses at Mr. Whitley's place on Friday of last week, while on his way to Edmonton with the mail, died on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Whitley left yesterday morning for Edmonton with the body, where it is his intention to turn it over to the police.

Deceased, who was a Bohemian, had been in this district for over two years and had been in the employ of Geo. McLeod, driving the stage to the landing for some fifteen months. He was forty years of age, unmarried and made his home with Mr. McLeod on Nampa avenue.

Mr. Whitley Jr., son of the gentleman at whose place the accident

JAPS GUARD THEMSELVES
St. Petersburg, Nov. 27.—The Fourteenth and Fifteenth naval battalions at St. Petersburg are disaffected. Twenty-four squadrons of Cossacks have been ordered to be mobilized to suppress agrarian disorders. The demand for troops is so great that a regiment which guarded Japanese prisoners has been withdrawn and the task of keeping order has been turned over to the Japanese themselves.

AN ADMIRAL SHOT

Odessa, Nov. 27.—Troops have been sent from here to quell the disorders at Sebastopol which are reported to be increasing. The mutineers have sent the Admiral the black coffin. The railway service with Sebastopol is interrupted. The wounds of Admiral Pleschinski, who was shot by sailors, are serious.

TWO OFFICERS KILLED

Vladivostok, Nov. 27.—A number of troops who were taken prisoners at Port Arthur and who recently returned here for enrollment in the local garrison, revolted today, killing two officers and wounding five others.

occurred, reached the city on Saturday, bringing in the mail and brought the first detailed account of the accident which resulted fatally. Newark was on the return trip from the landing, and stopped at Whitley's, about twenty miles from the landing for noon. While putting his team into the stable, one of the horses got in the wrong stall. Newark approached to change him, when the horse kicked him in the stomach with both feet. The injured man was taken to the house, where everything possible was done to relieve his sufferings. He was still living when Mr. Whitley Jr., left to bring in the mail but expired before medical assistance could arrive from the city.

FIFTEEN PASSENGERS KILLED IN A WRECK

Lincoln, Mass., Nov. 27.—The most disastrous railroad wreck in the history of this State occurred tonight at Baker's bridge, on the main line at the Boston and Maine Railroad. The Sunday night express, which left Boston at 7:45 o'clock for Montreal crashed into the rear of a local train from Boston. Fifteen passengers were killed outright, burned to death or suffocated, and thirty or more others were seriously injured. Many sustained cuts, bruises and burns.

THE ALLIED FLEET

Constantinople, Nov. 27.—The fleet of the allied powers has arrived at the Island of Mytilene.

RAILWAY NOTES

The special left for Winnipeg on Saturday morning at nine o'clock with Vice-President Mann and his party on board.

Geo. H. Shaw, traffic manager, left on Saturday afternoon via C. P. R. for Winnipeg.

It is expected that there will be a regular passenger service from Edmonton through to Winnipeg in about ten days. There will be three trains a week. A time-table will be issued in a few days.

Freight is coming into Edmonton over the C. N. R. line regularly now, and yesterday a heavy freight train arrived.

Steel is being laid through the Great estate and down the grade to the old station. It is expected that connections will be made with the C. T. & P. tomorrow night. Two sidings have also been laid in the yards.

The office of Superintendent Pace will be transferred to the new C. N. R. station as soon as the station is completed.

ENLARGING PREMISES

Great West Saddlery Erecting Large Addition to Make Provision for the Future

The Great West Saddlery Co. Ltd. have decided to enlarge their present quarters. An addition 25 by 75 solid brick is at present under construction. The excavation was completed today, and the contractor, Ald. May, hopes to complete the basement and first storey before Christmas. The walls are being built heavy enough for a three storey building. The first storey will be roofed in this fall, and the other two added as required. The company hope to develop what will ultimately be a very large jobbing and manufacturing business. With the advent of the C.N.R., and the expected development of the country to the west and north, Edmonton's position as a distributing point is now assured. It may be said that facts are stubborn things, and often upset theories, and the fact that a solid brick building can be commenced as late in the fall as the present should satisfy the most skeptical that our climate is all that it is claimed to be.

THREE YEAR SENTENCE

In the Supreme court on Saturday afternoon, Schwartz, for shooting at a Gekman in Strathcona, was sentenced to three years in penitentiary. The large debt cases are being disposed of this afternoon.

CONVALESCENT

The Toronto News is gradually convalescing and gives considerable promise of regaining by spring something of the old time vigor and combative spirit of the ante-bellum days. At the present it appears to have reached consciousness and that stage of recovery in which the convalescent adventurer is wont to while away the weary hours in pleasant and harmless musing on the happy days when health and strength were unbroken and he had not yet monkey with the buzz saw. But as yet the voice is feeble, the respiration weak and the column-line demurement has shrunk to a wall, a star in general character, but without tone and impotent in brevity. Sharrett and the rampant steers have disappeared and in their place only the unsupported pretension that "No question of principle was settled in the Alberta election." In time we doubt not these inoffensive dreams will rise again to the status of opinions, the organs of expression to their accustomed vigor and the News, pulsate with its old time self assurance and bristle with the dogmatism which admits to chance of error. In the meantime it is quite apparent that the result in Alberta was a rude shock to its susceptibility and that only by years of calculated obedience could the people of Alberta restore themselves to its confidence.

THE HUDSON'S BAY RAILWAY AND THE NEW PROVINCE

The Winnipeg Telegram is paying the air for reasons why the Saskatchewan Government should be defeated and as usual in such cases gaily of unreliable and usually irrelevant remarks which it produces under the appearance of fact and which it rears the flimsy phantoms which have appeared in the way of the Telegram is an imaginary railway policy of the Alberta Government which it seizes upon regardless of documentary evidence and makes the basis for a demand for the defeat of the Government in Saskatchewan. The Telegram's vision is worth reproduction and consideration.

In view of the proposal of the Manitoba Government toward joint action by the Western Provinces, in regard to the testing of the feasibility of the Hudson's Bay route, it is a matter for congratulation that the Liberal party in Alberta as well as the Conservative party, stand committed to a like policy. In session at Red Deer the Liberals of Alberta declared "that this convention is of the opinion that the earliest possible steps should be taken to secure joint action by the Governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia in order to ascertain definitely and finally the feasibility of the Hudson's Bay route and to let for our commodities" and went on to discuss the eventual construction of the connecting railway.

But the Liberals in Saskatchewan in session at Regina took a totally different stand. They passed a resolution declaring for the Federal construction and control of the Hudson's Bay route. The provincial rights party, however, adopted a practically similar resolution in favor of the Alberta Liberals and which is in essence the policy of the Manitoba Government.

It follows that a Liberal success in Saskatchewan will at once introduce a division of policy and opinion on this vital question, such as will inevitably tend to delay any practical work being done along this line. Few thinking men in the West would be inclined to see the control of this enterprise pass into Federal hands, for Ottawa Administrations, however good their intentions, would be practically at the mercy of an eastern opposition that might develop and would also be subjected from the first to those powerful corporations in influence that naturally from their own point of view, would seek to obstruct by every means possible a project that would threaten heavy rate cutting where the carriage of Western produce is concerned.

The argument of the Telegram if the article may be supposed to have any relation to argument is that the Governments of Alberta and Manitoba stand for the construction of the Hudson's Bay railway under the joint auspices of the Western Provinces, and that the Saskatchewan Government in holding it the duty of the Federal Government to secure the construction of the line creates a divergence or opposition of policy among the provinces most concerned which imperils the prosecution of the enterprise.

However surprising the news may be to the Telegram it is a matter of very general and common knowledge that the Government of Alberta does not stand for the construction of the Hudson's Bay railway as a provincial enterprise. As the four provinces west of the Great Lakes constitute the portion of Canada most directly and vitally interested in the construction of the road it was felt by Alberta Liberals that the initiative toward that end should be undertaken by the governments of these provinces. Beyond that the Alberta Liberals did not and the Alberta Government does not go. Believing that the benefits resulting from such a road while in the immediate and particular interests of the West would also contribute to the general welfare and prosperity of Canada as a whole, they content quite as firmly as the Government of Saskatchewan that the burden should be borne by Canada as a whole. Therefore so far from offering cause for conflict or delay the Liberal policies of Alberta and Saskatchewan are in entire harmony and form a common ground on which the Governments could meet to urge the speedy prosecution of the enterprise under conditions and upon terms most favorable to the Western Provinces. And however strongly the Government of Manitoba might desire to construct the railway under provincial auspices it is highly improbable that the people of that province would prefer to bear one-quarter of the burden instead of one-twentieth.

The Past Season in the North

Mr. Alfred von Hammerstein, who returned lately from the Athabasca all fields has some very interesting facts to relate from this particular, farthest-off section of our new Province. Mr. von Hammerstein has spent many years in the Athabasca Districts, hunting and exploring, and is thoroughly familiar with the enormous economical possibilities of the district and has induced outside capital to invest money and undertake the development of the oil deposits along the Athabasca. Asked for information in regard to the results of the work of the oil boring outfits brought into the country by him last season and the year before, Mr. von Hammerstein asked to be excused from making any statements, pleading that as the enterprise was undertaken by a syndicate, and not a public stock company, any information must necessarily, and for obvious business reasons, remain private, and the sole property of the parties which bear the expense of operating but he would go so far as to say that he had promoted and brought to the field two separate companies which are operating independently of each other in the Athabasca district. And will keep up the work, being satisfied with the result so far. The field is so far away and the geographic, physical and climatic conditions are so difficult that the development must be necessarily very expensive and slow, but however, he added, "The staff is there, and I knew, when I tackled the proposition of developing the oil field that I undertook an enterprise of enormous difficulties, but I am thoroughly informed of what is there, and know very well that all big things take big efforts. To conceive a job like the development of the Athabasca oil fields, under present conditions, and to raise the money to do with private means, what even the Dominion Government with all its vast resources behind it, has tried and failed to do, takes a character of a special brand, and needs a man of boundless faith, a stout heart and a stout body."

NAVIGATION DIFFICULTIES.

"During the past season the Athabasca river was exceptionally low, in fact it cannot be remembered that ever before so little water was in the Athabasca, and the water transportation this year was very difficult. Even in early summer which is generally the time of good high water, there was hardly enough to float the scows which transport the goods to the Far North and it took ten to twelve days and more to make the distance from Athabasca Landing to the foot of the Grand Rapids, a distance of about 150 miles down stream. The boats had to be emptied entirely at the Grand Rapids, and the goods portaged a distance of about three quarters of a mile, and even the empty scows had to be taken out of the water and bodily carried over the portage. Even the half-breed crews which are immune to all kinds of hardships in the river, not disgusted, and often deserted the travellers. A trader from McMurray, who had landed and camped somewhere near the Grand Rapids, woke up in the morning to find that everyone of his boat crew had deserted during the night, and there he was with two boat loads of goods 150 miles from nowhere without any men, and he had to foot it to McMurray, trying to raise another crew, while in the meantime his sister and a boy of 12 years were for two weeks the whole and only guardians of his outfit. The lady Mrs. Gordon, told that during the two weeks she was being the sole and nightly serenades of bands of wolves, which had scented the grub on the boats and kept prowling around. The Hudson's Bay's employees which go down in the early spring to Fort Chippewyan to take charge of the Co.'s steamer Grubbs, were also deserted. When Mr. von Hammerstein transported his outfit down, it was nip and tuck that he did not sink and lose his boat, carrying the boiler and other machinery in the Grand Rapids. He says that this year it was a job to get the half breed crews together at the Landing and get them started, as whisky was too plentiful. It took him a whole day to round up his men and they started to go down the river paralyzed, and after going a couple of miles, deserted and went back to the Landing."

"Winter did set in with a very cold snap and suddenly about the eighth of October, and caught the people right in the commencement of the fishing season. The River commenced to run thick ice over night, and carried away all the fish nets in the river around McMurray. This will entail great hardship to the people there as they had only caught a very few fish up to the time and fish is the most important item for the sustenance of the natives, and their dogs. Whoever has the contract of bringing mail to the Far North this winter will have to be careful to provide for the dogs as he cannot figure on any fish between McMurray and Chippewyan. After the ice commenced to run the river went lower than ever before, the rapids showed hardly any water, and consequently a good many traders, trappers and other travellers who were on their way to the North got caught and had to lay up at any place they could reach. Mr. G. E. Gordon, the principal trader at McMurray, excepting the Hudson's Bay Co., tried to get through by lightening his boats several times. The left fifty bags of flour at the Grand Rapids, and about five or six tons of goods at the Brule Rapids. He could only go as far as the Boiler Rapids, and then had to cache his goods and abandon the boat, and without any goods whatever for his winter trade he and his crew had to walk into McMurray, Ladoucan from House River, who also had goods on the road for his branch store at McMurray got caught in the same way, and had to abandon his goods near the Boiler Rapids. The same fate overtook Emile Shot, another trader, near McMurray, Allen Johnston, of Lake Wabasca, also had to leave goods and take his boat, and had to go back to the Grand Rapids. The eighty-seven miles of rapids are a menace and hindrance to all business and development of the country and a petition is preparing asking the new provincial Government to cut a road which would circumvent the rapids.

The far catch promises to be a most plentiful one. Trappers are strung along the river from the Landing to McMurray, and several pretty good catches have already been made, the fur having turned prime very early.

THE FARMERS' UNION

Editor Bulletin.

Dear Sir: I read very carefully in the Bulletin of Nov. 20th, the article by Mr. Sheppard, entitled "The Union Contemplated" and I was glad to find out that there are quite a few things on which Mr. Sheppard and my humble self are perfectly of the same opinion. I noticed that he was just as anxious as I am to save time, and to have the farmers of the province organized as soon as possible. My purpose in starting this controversy in the Bulletin was to save time by trying to clear the way for the discussion of this question of amalgamation, so that the matter could be settled at our convention on the 8th of December, and incidentally try to get the farmers interested in this movement for organization now going on.

I quite agree with Mr. Sheppard and I am ready to shake hands with him when he says that he can take by the hand the American, the German, the Galician, etc., and welcome him as a brother; that he is prepared to unite with our brothers across the line in any big move for their good and ours; and that he is against any petty jealousies, and that he is not particular about the name of the organization so long as it is not detrimental to the welfare of the association.

Although a comparison is not a reason, I like his comparison with the Alberta Government; he says that our business could not be as well managed from Ottawa. Certainly not, at least some of our business; some can certainly be better managed from Ottawa. Mr. Sheppard is a good patriot and I hardly think he would be in favor of forming an independent state in Alberta and break loose altogether from the Dominion and from England. Perhaps he will understand why we don't want to break loose from our Indianapolis headquarters. But leaving all comparison aside, I shall explain this apparent inconsistency by calling our society Canadian Society of Equity and retaining Mr. Everett and his friends as managers. The Society of Equity is an educational society and it is an international society.

Mr. Everett, the founder of the society, devised a plan that if adopted by a sufficient number of farmers, would enable them to get always profitable prices for their products, and the purpose of the A. S. of E. is to bring about the realization of that plan. The main business of the Indianapolis headquarters is the publishing of the paper "Up-to-date Farming" in which they educate the farmers to act according to the principles of controlled market.

They give attention to the society in the U.S., Canada and other foreign countries. They do not care to interfere with our Alberta affairs any more than we care to interfere with the affairs of the U.S. farmers. They only use us the plan. It is our business to carry it through the best we can. Our Canadian Society of Equity will continue the same independence as the A.S. of E. would, and will be managed, as Mr. Sheppard wished, by men living in Alberta, well posted in our peculiar conditions. But we are ready to follow good advice or words according to a good plan, even if the advice and the plan comes from our American neighbors.

The United States and Canada are close neighbors, speaking the same language; they are both surplus producing countries; their foreign markets for farm produce are practically the same; the condition of the U.S. farmer and Canadian farmer are very similar. It is a well known fact that the situation of the market in the States affects closely the market in Canada. If the American farmers, by following the advice of the A.S. of E. become able to keep their prices up, it will be easier for us to get good prices here and the more members we get into the society, whether Canadian or American, the easier will be for us the task of controlling our market. That is why the Canadian farmers and American farmers must co-operate as much as possible to attain that result. That is why an international organization will be more effective and will have more chances of success than a small provincial association.

Mr. Sheppard wants to unite the two low existing organizations, but I can't help having my doubts about the practicability of his project of amalgamation. If he finds some objectionable features in the Society of Equity, we can find some too in the proposed "Alberta Farmer's Association." For instance we do not like an association so much under the control of Government officials and where so much power is left to the executive. Then it is not built for the purpose of the purpose, namely "controlled marketing by farmers." I am afraid we may lose precious time in trying to reach an agreement satisfactory to both parties. We may never succeed in it or we may only arrange an ill-matched union that would not last. We would then waste much time and money in the proposed amalgamation. Our society has no bad feeling against other farmers' organizations. An organization of any kind is better than none. It will always be possible for the farmers of both organizations to work together for some definite purpose, and to stand shoulder to shoulder when their common interests are at stake.

I believe Mr. Sheppard when he says he is not preparing for a fight, but rather for a marriage feast. But I think I am an expert on the opinion of the majority of our members or say: "We never want to fight, but we are not anxious to marry, let us be friends." NESTOR NOEL.

THE CHANNEL DISASTER.

St. Malo, Nov. 22.—Realization of the full extent of the disaster to the cross-channel steamer Hilda was borne in upon the people of this town today as reports of the finding of bodies came in from different points on the nearby coast. In all, over sixty bodies have been washed up, including that of Capt. Gregory, the commander of the wrecked ship, which now lies at the hospital here, and as fast as other bodies arrive they will be placed in a long room prepared for their reception. Thirteen bodies of saloon passengers have been identified.

The survivors are rapidly recovering. In response to the captain's appeal, when he found that it would be useless to attempt to launch the boats, all the women and children were mustered in the main hatch and the stewardess fixed life belts around each of them, the French onlookers assisting in the work. Everybody was quiet.

A survivor says there were about twenty persons on the rigging when the vessel foundered. He describes pathetically how the men gradually dropped off, exhausted by the terrible cold, and says the roar of the elements was awful. As the men fell off, they ejaculated:

"We have had enough of this. It does not matter how we die, goodbye."

The entrance to the harbor of St. Malo is one of the most difficult known to mariners. Saturday night a blinding snow storm with haze and wind prevailed, and it is little wonder that even so experienced a navigator as Capt. Gregory lost his reckoning, especially as at the point where the Hilda struck only a few yards variation from the regular course meant destruction. Torpedo boats despatched to the scene of the wreck, ascertained that there is no hope of salvaging the vessel.

Southampton, Nov. 22.—All the members of the crew of the Hilda were residents of this town, and most pitiful scenes were enacted through the day at the offices of the London and Southwestern Railway company. The officials were unable to extend any hope to the relatives. Most of the men leave wives and children. The steamer Ada of the same line, which picked up the survivors is expected to arrive tomorrow. The mayor of Southampton has started a relief fund and is receiving a ready response to the appeal.

HOSPITAL STAFF CLEARED

(Red Deer News) At a meeting held on Friday evening, November 17, of the Red Deer Memorial Hospital, the board appointed a committee consisting of Dr. Gaetz, L. C. Fulmer, and E. Michener to investigate the charges against certain officials at the hospital. In the committee's opinion after hearing the evidence of the matron and nurses, the hospital officials are entirely free from any blame in not allowing Mr. Matson to enter the hospital. The following is a summary of the facts as the committee find them. Mr. Matson had been stopping at the Alexandra hotel was taken ill, and without calling in a doctor to ascertain the nature of the disease and without attendants except a driver, was sent to the hospital, where no doctor was available.

The first intimation the matron or nurses had of the man being there was when the driver opened the front door of the hospital and shouted that he had a sick man for the hospital. The matron asked him what the driver did not know, but heard he had asthma.

Recently a man came to the hospital in a similar way, and the matron found he was only intoxicated. The matron explained to the driver that she had no right to take any man in, without a doctor's orders, as he might have some contagious disease, which would endanger the other patients and told the man again that she could not take him in. The committee would like to add further that there was no one available to take the man in, as it usually requires four men to carry a sick man into the hospital, there being only two nurses besides the driver who was engaged with his team.

The committee cannot see how blame can be put upon the matron for safe-guarding the interests of the hospital, as anyone must admit it is only reasonable precaution to require a doctor's certificate except in the case of accident, where a nurse has a right to admit a patient informally.

SHOT AT A CHINAMAN

Strathcona, Nov. 25.—Guy Baxter appeared this evening before Magistrate Ritchie to answer a charge of shooting at a Chinaman. Crown Attorney McKinnon presented the case while Mr. N. D. Mills represented the defence.

Mah Jim testified that he worked at the Queen's Hotel, Edmonton, and came to Strathcona to see his cousin and in company with four more Chinamen were going over to Edmonton on Monday, November 20. The prisoner and another boy were in the road and played them, saying "Chinamen with pig tails." The Chinamen chased the boys, when the prisoner fired four shots at them from a revolver. He was about four feet away when he fired the first two shots, and two more as he ran. He said they had no knives.

O. Bush, of Strathcona, next testified under oath that he met several Chinamen and the boys on the road near Mr. Blain's house as he was driving in a buggy from Edmonton to Strathcona. He thought the boys were playing the Chinamen and saw the latter chase the boys, although the Chinamen threw mud and sticks. He heard and saw only two shots fired. He could not recognize the prisoner. He saw no knives in the hands of the Chinamen.

Baxter was sent to jail for trial.

HAROLD NELSON TO-NIGHT

The Harold Nelson Co. came in on Saturday and played to a good house in Strathcona Saturday evening. Tonight they open a two night engagement in Robertson Hall, presenting "Prince Otto." Mr. Nelson has visited Edmonton for many years and has secured a reputation which ensures large and appreciative houses. Some of the members of the supporting company were with him on former visits while several are strangers to Edmonton.

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING AT MOOSEJAW

Moose Jaw, Nov. 25.—A German named Griebel, staying at the farmhouse of Edward Beaupre, father of the dead Willow Bunch giant, while preparing to go hunting, accidentally discharged his shotgun. Beaupre's son, aged 14, received a number of shots in his thigh and left side, and a baby also received some pellets. The boy may die, but the infant will recover. The German has disappeared.

FAVOR MUNICIPAL PHONES.

Brandon, Nov. 24.—At today's session of the Union of Manitoba municipalities, the most important action taken was the unanimous adoption of a resolution favoring municipal ownership of telephones.

CANADA-NEW ZEALAND LINE

Ottawa, Nov. 24.—At today's cabinet meeting an order in council was passed, granting a contract to the Bucknall steamer line of London, England, for a service on the Pacific between Vancouver and New Zealand. There will be twelve sailings in the year, one boat leaving and one arriving every two months. The boats make ten knots an hour. Canada gives $50,000 a year and New Zealand the same amount.

—The Russian Opera Co., closed a successful week's engagement on Saturday night. The Telephone Girl occupied the boards, while a fair sized and delighted audience applauded the many puns and local hits. The company has artists of a high order for the leading roles in its repertoire, and the chorus is well sustained and well balanced. A good patronage would be sure to favor it should this company ever return.

The Season In The North

Lynx are the most plentiful fur, Next come mink and foxes, ermine and skunk. Martin and otter seem to be rather scarce this winter in that particular section. Rabbits are most plentiful there as well as anywhere else.

Mr. von Hammerstein bought and brought out with him a very fine black fox skin which he bought from an Indian trader near Pelican Rapids, and pretty near all the Indian camps he passed on his way out had some nice fur hanging in their tepees. At several places in that district the attempt is made to breed valuable fur in captivity, and for this purpose Mr. Gordon at McMurray, has some silver foxes, Mr. G. Bentley at the Pelican portage, and Mr. Atkinson at the Landing. The results are still in abeyance. The traders seem to have anticipated a good fur season, and have brought in heavier stocks than ever. The Government's gas well near the Pelican Portage is still burning, and is still discharging an enormous amount of natural gas which shows no visible appearance of diminishing. Mr. von Hammerstein says he calculates that during the day the loss of heat is equal to about twelve tons of the best anthracite coal. Figuring the value of such coal per day, and the waste of the last seven or eight years of natural gas, the amount of value lost to the country would reach quite a respectable figure.

INDIAN SUPERSTITION.

A curious wave of superstition seems to have swept over the native Indians in that particular part of the country. Mr. von Hammerstein has been in this particular district of the Athabases annually for years, and knows a good many of the Indians personally, speaks their language and understands their character, and he says that he never observed conditions like this before. The talk always seems to circle around supernatural subjects, and they claim and testify that the chief has been given supernatural powers, that he can go into a camp or anywhere and can paralyze people by the mere uplifting of his hands, that they can not move without his will, and stay in any position till he releases them out of their trance. However that may be they are so much afraid of fires and have the gun handy, not go even in daylight in the bush singly, and nights they do not dare go away from the camp or the campfires, and have the gun handy. A big strong brave had left Gordon's trading post last winter with his dog train on a trip. He went about sundown, and about an hour later, when it was already dark, he came running back to the store minus the dog-train, gun and everything else. With all signs of abject fear he protested that some way off, while he was passing alone the night he saw glimmers. He got so scared that he abandoned everything and turned back, and for several days he did not dare even in daylight to go back to the place. He left his dogs, etc., and the starving brutes in his absence chewed through the traces and had eaten whatever eatable he had on his toboggan. During the summer some horses strayed away and the Indians attributed it to bad spirits that had taken them away, and they did not dare to even look for them. At the pow-wow which precedes the annual payment of treaty money the chief and a deputation approached the Commissioner, Mr. Conroy, on the subject of spirits and "bad Indians" and complained and asked for protection from the Commissioner from the "bad spirits" that stole their horses, spoiled the hunt, were prowling around the camp during the night threatening to steal their squaws, and did other mischief, and they asked permission to shoot any spirits or ghosts of "bad Indians" on sight. Mr. Conroy had a hard job to reassure them and quieted them to some extent, and he forbade strikers to shoot any "bad Indians" or ghosts, but told them to round them up and keep them for him to interview. It was a good thing that Mr. Conroy took a very energetic stand in the question of shooting as otherwise damage might have been done. The Indians are highly intelligent, and show a great deal of shrewdness, business and common sense, but as soon as their superstitions are aroused they are absolutely like children and beyond reasoning.

Mr. von Hammerstein used a gasoline launch around McMurray, the first one ever seen in the country, and once approaching an Indian camp to vary the evening, the puffing of the motor and the rapid approach of the boat without any visible moving power alarmed the Indians to such an extent that the braves and squaws ran away from the camp into the bush, leaving some popovers behind, which were absolutely terrorized with fear of the "matchy Man-iron."

At McMurray this year some experiments have been made by traders to raise oats, which proved to be an entire success. Mr. Gordon also brought in by way of Lac La Poudre a band of about twenty horses for ranching and other purposes. The gardens do splendidly this year in that section, and potatoes grow plentifully and of excellent quality and quantity. Berries were abundant as never before, and the bushes were simple loaded with wild cherries, hick bush, raspberries, etc. Blueberries and the Arctic cranberries grow so plentifully that some catches in the woods were actually like a carpet in blue and red. From the number of berries. Accordingly bear and other game was most plentiful. During the summer there was not an Indian camp that did not have an abundance of moose, caribou, or bear meat, and the all border outfits were never without fresh meat.

Mr. von Hammerstein says that this important section is in fact a veritable basket of goodies, and if the new agricultural Government would make the district a little more accessible and would bring it before the notice of the outside world he is sure it would attract an amount of wealth and commerce that the province could not easily derive from any other source. It was estimated that the magnificent inexchangeable game preserve which would favorably compare with the income of the State of Maine in the U. S. A. from the same source. It was estimated that the sportsmen from the United States and one million dollars for licenses, hire of guides, provisions there per year. At House Deer moose are so plentiful, that they feed the train dogs entirely on moose meat, and do not bother at all to catch fish.

Real actual up-to-date knowledge especially of the eastern and northern parts of the Athabasca district, is limited to a very few persons, and Mr. von Hammerstein begs to say from his intimate knowledge of the country, that had there been a contest instead of an election by acclamation, the amount of votes polled in the district would have been the greatest surprise.

Athabasca Landing is building up very rapidly, and in proportion has made the same progress as Edmonton, and people who perhaps would visit the Landing today after an absence of say five years, would not know the place any more, and the trail is settled and fenced in pretty nearly all the way. A party of settlers from Minnesota, under the leadership of Mr. G. A. Oaks were met on the trail on their way to the Peace River country. In a conversation Mr. Oaks stated that this party were the delegates and the advance guard of over two hundred from his part of Minnesota, which would follow if the Peace River country would come up to expectations.

It means fewer stockings to buy—and much less darning to do.

This is being done by the chief of the fire brigade so that he is satisfied that the alarm system is in working order every day. —Fort Saskatchewan Reporter: Fort Saskatchewan is now enjoying an era of prosperity resulting from the opening up of the country by the arrival of the C. N. R. main line. This prosperity is having a marked effect on real estate in the town. Frank Marlagio, who some time since purchased six town lots for a total of $220, recently sold four of them for $2750. Two were corner lots, with 50 foot frontage, and the rest had a frontage of 40 feet.

THE NEW STATION

Many were the complimentary remarks passed by officials and other prominent persons upon the C. N. R. station building which is now all but completed. The station stands just off First street and is easy of approach. It is built of brick and stone and is 136 feet in length by 32 feet in width. A platform encloses the building and is sheltered by a narrow roof. There are gables at each end of the building and in the centre four turrets, two on either side. Between the turrets will be placed a carved stone shaft of wheat bearing the figures "1905." The roof is sheeted with steel.

On the ground floor is the ladies' waiting room, the ticket offices, general waiting room, and at the west end the baggage room and dining car department where supplies for the dining cars will be kept.

On the second floor, east end, are the offices of despatcher, cashier, agent, and general traffic manager. In the centre of the building is the superintendent's office. At the west end are the agent's quarters and dining room.

The station throughout has been built with an eye to the comfort and convenience of travellers, and when finished will be one of the finest stations on the line of the Canadian Northern Railway.
